Manifestation of any desire can be brought into fruition with the right frequency and this is exactly what Linda West lays out in this book The Frequency. I have been exploring metaphysics and the powers of the mind for some time. What I have discovered on this journey we refer to as "life" is that the right information comes to us in perfect timing. It is recognizing these synchronicities that we open the door for more magic into our lives. West details five easy steps a person can take to manifest just about anything in your life. It is all about getting on the same frequency of your desires. I am a big dreamer, so after reading her book, I took some time to do what she suggested:- Taking a closer look at my goals and dreams...are they too big? Do I really FEEL that these things could happen for me? That very question caused me to examine what my true feeling were in relation to my intentions. Secondly, I was missing a vital step that West points out in this book: getting to the highest frequency possible. What is getting into this frequency and how can one do so? West answers this questions as well in a way that is so simple, I don't know why I didn't know this from the jump. I don't want to provide any spoilers, but I know that this book has made some major changes in my mindset and I have re-tuned my frequency to manifest even the smallest things. For example, I was eagerly awaiting a package that was suppose to arrive in late November. What I did was change my feelings of anxiousness to sheer happiness about having my product sooner rather than later. Low and behold, the package arrived today! This has done nothing but encourage me even more to manifest other things into my life.
